Subject: New WebMail Available Tomorrow

Northwestern community,

As a reminder, effective tomorrow, March 28, 2007, Northwestern University Information Technology (NUIT) will launch a new WebMail application for the entire Northwestern community that will feature greater stabilization and functionality. Please note the new Web-based e-mail application is not to be confused with the recent student initiative featuring the “@u.northwestern.edu” e-mail service that will be launched later this year.

ADDRESS BOOK USERS: NUIT is making every effort to ensure contact information will be properly migrated into the new WebMail.

Users utilizing the address book in non-standard practices (i.e., more than one address per contact field) are encouraged to export contacts and save outside of WebMail before tomorrow’s launch. To export, visit your WebMail address book, and select Import/Export.

Want to know more about the new application? Mark your calendar now for an opportunity to learn more about the ins and outs of the new WebMail:
