From: IT Communications <it-communications@northwestern.edu>
Date: Thu, 24 Oct 2002 12:32:28 -0500
Subject: Reminder - Email routing to addresses in the @nwu.edu domain will end in June 2004

To all NUIT staff:

This is a reminder that email addresses in the @nwu.edu domain (and sub-domains based thereon) will no longer function as of June 2004. The exact date for this change will be June 20, 2004.

After that time, any email to addresses in these domains will be returned as undeliverable. This is in keeping with the plan announced in May 2000 and described at <http://www.tss.northwestern.edu/reference/northwestern-edu.html>. The exact email addresses affected are those ending in @nwu.edu, @law.nwu.edu, @md.nwu.edu, @kellogg.nwu.edu, and @alum.kellogg.nwu.edu.

In October 2002, approximately 65% of all email coming into Northwestern uses the newer @northwestern.edu addresses. The remainder continues to use the older addresses.

Increasingly, NUIT is hearing complaints that users are receiving SPAM email messages to their old domain address and would prefer to invalidate that address early.

A new web page, <https://snap.it.northwestern.edu/it/snaps/remove-domains.cgi>, has been created for this purpose. At this page, NetID holders can immediately and irreversibly remove themselves from all domains scheduled to expire in June 2004 leaving only the northwestern.edu domain variant(s) as functional.

Note that this process does not affect listserv subscriptions. If you are subscribed to a list under the old domain, you should unsubscribe from the list and resubscribe using the new domain address before using this tool.

Please direct any questions about this process and timeline to it-feedback@northwestern.edu.